STARTING YOUNG—Though he's only 20 months old, Posing Keith Turner marches like a veteran at a Boy Scout gathering in Atlanta, Ga. The spunky lad is not a Scout himself, but he comes from a scouting family. His father heads a Scout pack; his mother is a Den Mother and his two older brothers are Cubs.

MANHOLD BARRY, father of 11 children, leans against a police car and weeps after identifying the body of his son, right, who drowned in the Chicago River.

WHERE'S GEORGIA'S PEACHES?—From across the country of Georgia's peach stands this year. Discovering this is Mrs. J. Howard Crowe of Atlanta. And the 25-cent-a-peach price tag isn't all that surprised her. The fruit, usually plentiful in Georgia, are imports from California. The "peach state" has no peaches of its own this year because the late frost killed them this spring.

HE PLAYS A SWIMMING GAME—Alfred Ebbor of Austria looks more like an enthusiastic swimmer than a head-slitting assassin. These pictures of him in diving action were taken during his match with Great Britain's Geoffrey L. Ward in the All-England tennis tourney at Wimbledon. Ebbor's grandmother, by the way, speaks Whiskey for him.

The low back of hair on the back of a Mohammed's head is some a turning motion is given to left there as a handle by which he can be pulled to heaven, or by his current.

THIS IS A REAL HORSE RACE—and it's straight from the horse's mouth. Owner C. A. Wilkes of Norfolk, England, is wondering what he is likely to find, the main. Maybe since thinking about the person who goes to the race.

ARLBER MODEL—This is a scale test model of an airplane designed to take off and land like a biplane. The wings are in a vertical position as the model flies in a U.S. government laboratory at Moffett Field, Suisunville, Calif. Once airborne, wings and propeller are swung into normal horizontal position. Original and model have made three successful flights by remote control. Full scale prototype is now planned on the basis of the tests.
